Martine Marion
Ecole Centrale de Lyon

Global existence for systems describing multicomponent reactive flow

Abstract:

We consider combustion problems in the presence of complex chemistry and nonlinear diffusion laws for the chemical species. The nonlinear diffusion coefficients are obtained by resolution of the so-called Stefan-Maxwell equations. We prove the existence of weak solutions for the corresponding system of equations which involves coupling between the incompressible Navier-Stokes and equations for temperature and species concentrations.