Learning and compression

Abstract:

There are at least 2 aspects to learning: predicting the outcome of unseen events, and finding simple explanations of observed systems. We shall discuss 2 formal abstractions of these aspects: PAC learning and sample compression schemes. We shall start with an introduction to these notions, and then discuss the equivalence between them.

Based on a joint project with Shay Moran, Amir Shpilka and Avi Wigderson.